

Christopher Steines

I graduated from Missouri State in 1998 with a major in Risk Management and Insurance. I was awarded the NAPSLO Scholarship for the 1997-1998 school year and in 1998 the Blades Scholar for an internship in London.

In 1998 I began working as a Business Analyst with Computer Sciences Corporation in the Financial Services division, specializing in the insurance industry. In 2001 I became a Senior Business Analyst with 21st Century Insurance. In 2004 I came to my current position of Implementation Consultant with Xchanging.

I have lived and worked on projects in Austin, TX; Kansas City, MO; Los Angeles, CA; Philadelphia, PA; and Bermuda. I currently reside in ST. Louis, MO and am married to Dr. Steines. We just gave birth to a son named Charlie.

My experience in the RMI program and my participation with Gamma Iota Sigma at Missouri State gave me a broad background of the insurance industry. In my career as an insurance software consultant I am often supporting clients with various needs. I have consulted on auto insurance, life insurance, claims, commercial property, and reinsurance software applications. I am able to hit the ground running each time a new project starts due to the strength and breadth of knowledge of the insurance industry that I was exposed to while at Missouri State University.
